I pray that out of his glorious riches he may strengthen you with power through his Spirit in your inner being, so that Christ may dwell in your hearts through faith. And I pray that you, being rooted and established in love, may have power, together with all the Lord's holy people, to grasp how wide and long and high and deep is the love of Christ, and to know this love that surpasses knowledge—that you may be filled to the measure of all the fullness of God.

– Ephesians 3:16-19

Class of 2026 Heaven

she was ready to take us back. With the support and guidance of Mom and Dad Moore, she had worked hard to become sober, find a job, and establish a stable home for us.

For a while, things were going well. Unfortunately, over time, circumstances began to change, and eventually it was no longer a safe environment for Grace, Hunter, and me. During that difficult season, Kirk and Denna continued to make sure we were okay. As soon as they realized we needed a safe place to live, they drove four hours to Springfield, Missouri, in the middle of the night to bring us home.

Being back at Shiloh felt right. Shiloh has always felt like home to me, and I am deeply grateful for that.

Shiloh would not be possible without the faithful support of those who give financially to make this ministry possible. Because of your generosity, I had a safe home, loving caregivers, and the opportunity to grow up in a stable environment. Thank you for investing in the lives of children like me.

It is hard to believe that I am now preparing to enter the next chapter of my life. As I look toward college and the future, I am grateful to know that Shiloh will continue to be part of my story—a place that will always feel like home and a place I can return to, even if it is just for a weekend.

Class of 2026 Brooklynn

As I walked across the stage to receive my diploma, I was not just reminded of my accomplishments, but also of the people who helped me get to where I am today.

I learned how to overcome obstacles, build meaningful friendships, and grow my relationship with Jesus.

When I first came to Shiloh, my future felt uncertain. I struggled to see what the years ahead would hold because I couldn't see past the anger that I held in my heart. At the time, it was hard to imagine a future filled with hope, love, and opportunity.

Many people know that the journey through high school can be challenging, frustrating, and full of life lessons. However, it can also be exciting, rewarding, and filled with opportunities for growth. Throughout my years of living at Shiloh, I learned how to overcome obstacles, build meaningful friendships, and grow my relationship with Jesus. Most importantly, I learned that my past did not have to determine my future.

The support and guidance that I received at Shiloh helped me become the person I am today. My mom and dad, Todd and Misty Kolars, believed in me when I didn't believe in myself, and they loved me unconditionally. They encouraged me, stood by me during the hard times, and showed me that I was capable of achieving more than I ever thought possible.

I am incredibly grateful not only for my parents but for every house parent at Shiloh. They all served as amazing examples of how Christ shows His love to others. They taught me that even when you mess up or get off track, there will always be someone there to help steady you and guide you back to the right path.

Looking ahead, my plans are to attend Missouri Valley College, where I will major in Exercise Science. I have also signed to join their competitive powerlifting and weightlifting teams. As I head off to college, I know that I will always have a lifelong family and friends whom I can depend on. I'm so thankful for all of our sponsors and churches that donate to Shiloh because without Shiloh I'd never even imagined becoming the person I am today.

When I was five years old, my siblings (ages four and three) and I came to Shiloh for the first time. However, we did not initially join the family you see me with today. We first lived in the Beauregard home, where we stayed for about nine months.

not happen the way I expected.

When the Beauregard family decided to transition out of the ministry, I thought, "Surely my dad will take us back now." But once again, I was wrong. Instead, my siblings and I moved into the Moore family's home, where I would spend the next several years of my life.

Looking back now, I can see that it was exactly where I needed to be. I was incredibly blessed to grow up in such a loving environment. My childhood is filled with wonderful memories of what we affectionately called the "OG Nine" in the Moore household.

There were Hunter, Grace, and me—the Claypool kids. Then there were Abigail, Matthew, and Josiah—the Looten kids. And finally, Titus, Ezra, and Luke ---Kirk and Denna's three boys. Together, we felt unstoppable—or at least non-stop when it came to bickering! But in all seriousness, we grew as close as biological siblings.

Then there was Mercy. I sometimes joke that I feel bad she had to put up with all of us, but she was an amazing big sister to every one of us. She still visits when she can, and it's always exciting to see her.

At the end of my fifth-grade year, our biological mother decided

At the time, I was halfway through kindergarten and pretty oblivious to what was happening around me. To me, it didn't seem like a big deal. I thought, "My dad will come back for me soon. No worries." But as the months passed with no sign of my dad, I began to worry. It made me sad at times, and I started to realize that things might
